Biro legislation not acted on by Maple Hts. Council; G.H. mayor rescinds offer of help

By Judy Goldsworth

A special Maple Heights Council meeting was called for last Tuesday, Jan. 22, to discuss the Shared Services Agreement legislation to hire Garfield Heights Finance Director Barb Biro to act as interim finance director in Maple Heights as well, and provide her expertise in helping Maple Heights as it struggles to get out of state receivership.

Maple Heights Council Clerk Leonette Cicirella, said, however, that the special meeting was not held because that legislation remained in the Finance Committee.

Council President Ron Jackson confirmed this yesterday, along with council members Stafford L. Shenett Sr., Toni Jones and Ebony Miller. All members of Maple Heights Council were contacted on Monday, and given the opportunity to share their side of this issue.

Maple Heights Mayor Annette Blackwell received a letter from Garfield Heights Mayor Vic Collova to her on January 25th announcing his decision to rescind the offer to have Biro also serve as Maple Heights' finance director. Collova stated that Garfield Heights Council had passed legislation last November allowing Biro to help Maple Heights on an interim basis to deal with their fiscal emergency problem but that Maple Heights Council had failed to pass the agreement so he was withdrawing his offer of her help.

Blackwell said Collova "went on to further comment that this action was in response to the lack of respect and gratefulness that he feels that our city council has shown him and Barb Biro, as well as his city council, who fully and promptly supported the agreement when he presented it to them."

Blackwell said that Collova told her Garfield Heights Council President Matt Burke had attended "at least two of our council meetings, and even addressed our city council at the podium, where he was met with dismissiveness and a lack of respect."

"I cannot adequately express my appreciation for all that the city of Garfield Heights has done to assist the city of Maple Heights by providing financial services after the dismissal of our finance director, and especially with the added demands of being in fiscal emergency," Blackwell responded to Mayor Collova.

Biro had been helping Maple Heights with its financial issues last year at no cost to the city.

She also thanked Biro "for making a difference and helping us."

Garfield Hts. passes bill amending rules for animals; pit bull ban gone

By Ellen Psenicka

After three readings and lots of input from city officials and residents, Garfield Heights Council passed legislation Monday night to end the pit bull ban in the city and require every dog owner in Garfield Heights to have at least $50,000 worth of liability insurance on their dogs.

Mayor Vic Collova said the new law now conforms to state regulations and is actually a better law than the one it replaces in Garfield Heights. Council passed the canine bill 6-1, with Ward 4 Councilman Eugene Glenn the lone dissenter.

Mayor Collova, in his report to council, said he had rescinded the offer council had approved in November allowing Finance Director Barb Biro to act as interim finance director in Maple Heights as well, to help the neighboring suburb in its struggle to get out of state fiscal emergency status.

In his letter to Maple Heights Mayor Annette Blackwell and City Council, dated January 25th, he stated:

"I am disappointed to learn that Maple Heights City Council has not passed the agreement between the city of Garfield Heights and the city of Maple Heights for the shared use of Garfield Heights Finance Director Barbara Biro.

"As the mayor of a city who has worked towards and succeeded in removing itself from such designation, I believed that Ms. Biro could prove to be a great asset for the city of Maple Heights; I am sorry to see that Maple Heights City Council does not agree."

CPD investigating homicide on E. 48 St.

Cleveland police are investigating the death of Michael May, 33, of Newburgh Heights. He was found on the footbridge on East 48th Street over I-77 in Slavic Village with a fatal gunshot wound to the head on Sunday, according to a Cleveland police report and Sgt. Reginald Lanton with CPD.

Police responded to the 3600 block of East 48th Street around 4:15 p.m. on January 27th and found May on the footbridge with three gunshot wounds to his head and body, according to the report. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

Sgt. Jennifer Ciaccia with CPD said May was found by juveniles playing outside. They notified an adult relative who then called police. Ciaccia said May appeared to have been walking across the bridge and had items from a recent store purchase still with him.

The shooting is being investigated as a homicide, according to Lanton. No suspect information was available as of press time. Anyone with information regarding this incident is asked to contact investigators at 216-623-5464.

Stella Walsh opens its doors to help residents stay warm

Stella Walsh Recreation Center, 7245 Broadway Ave. in Slavic Village, will open its doors to help residents keep warm this Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, from noon to 8 p.m.

Though Stella Walsh is not a formal 24-hour warming center at this time, they encourage residents to stop by if they want to warm up during the arctic freeze coming our way.

"We appreciate the city's effort to help those in need during this weather storm and provide a safe and warm place to relax," said Ward 12 Councilman Tony Brancatelli.

'Say Yes to Education' offers scholarships for CMSD students

Cleveland has become the fourth chapter of "Say Yes to Education," a historic development that will bring college scholarships to Cleveland Metropolitan School District (CMSD) students while also providing services designed to keep them on track to graduation.

For a city with the nation's second highest rate of child poverty and a low percentage of college graduates, the move promises to be a game changer. Besides opening doors for students who may have once dismissed post-secondary education as unaffordable, creating "Say Yes Cleveland" has the potential to attract new residents and spur economic growth.

Philanthropist George Weiss, who founded the national nonprofit "Say Yes" organization 31 years ago, announced Cleveland's selection January 18th at the John Marshall Campus.

Starting this spring students can receive a scholarship for up to the full value of tuition, minus federal and state aid, for any public two-year college, four-year college or Pell-eligible technical program in Ohio.

Scholarships also can be used at the more than 100 private colleges and universities that belong to the National Higher Education Compact. The names of 12 new compact members were announced January 18th, including local institutions Case West-

Best wishes are extended to Ione Parry of Jones Road Chapel as she celebrated her birthday last Saturday at the church's monthly community meal. Parry started the free meal program 32 years ago and has helped thousands of families in need.

She also is the executive director of the Literacy Through the Arts Summer Academy which provides music classes, math and reading programs for six weeks each summer to neighborhood youth at a nominal cost.

Slavic Village hosts Nite at the Races at CCC

This past Saturday, Slavic Village Development hosted their annual Nite at the Races fundraiser with over 270 neighborhood supporters! This year's festivities at Cleveland Central Catholic's Ironmen Center included the new Triple Crown raffle with a Francisco Lindor signed bat as the top prize.

Dinner and drinks were nothing short of delicious as a delectable taco bar and Goldhorn Brewery kept their Polka City Pilsner flowing. The horse races were as entertaining as ever as guests helped fund neighborhood projects in Slavic Village.

Biro legislation not acted

Council responds

"I would like to thank Garfield Heights for their generosity in helping our city," Maple Heights Council President Jackson stated. "City council took no action, as the legislation was kept in committee and never sent to the floor for a vote."

Jackson continued, "I feel by not approving this legislation was a missed opportunity to keep our city and state required finance reports up to date, which may also affect our timetable to be released from fiscal emergency by the state of Ohio."

Shenett, who is a member of Maple Heights Council's Finance Committee, stated, "We never voted on the legislation. It is currently still in committee and unresolved. Based on the latest information presented to the council, the issue is now a moot point."

Miller stated that the legislation for the Shared Services Agreement had been discussed at a finance meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 22, and was on the agenda for a special meeting that was to be held tonight, Wednesday, Jan. 30, and that the language of the resolution was changed that council was prepared to vote on. "However, Mayor Collova rescinded his offer prior to council voting on the legislation," she said.

Miller said that the language of the resolution was amended to include the following phrases: "The mayor is not authorized to pay Biro for any raise she may receive from Garfield Heights. Also, the contract with Biro shall end by February 28, 2019, with an option to be extended on a monthly basis upon approval of new legislation."

"At our last council meeting, Mayor Blackwell amended Resolution 2018-103 that stated, 'the Mayor is not authorized to pay Biro for any raise she may receive from Garfield Heights. Also, the contract with Biro shall end by April 30, 2019.' This amendment was not voted on by council, but rather was placed for discussion in committee," Councilwoman Jones stated.

She said, "The majority of council did not agree to that language and wanted the contract to end by February 28, and read, 'to be renewed with new legislation.' I am not sure if this amendment reached the mayor prior to the letter we received from Mayor Collova."

Jones stated that after Blackwell shared Collova's letter with council, "I e-mailed both Mayor Collova and Council President Matt Burke to thank them for lending the services of Ms. Biro to Maple Heights last year, at no cost to our city."

Jones added, "I have no words as to why council has constantly delayed or stonewalled the approval of the contract with Garfield Heights. I appreciate the efforts and congeniality of Garfield Heights, and I am presently deeply disappointed and embarrassed to be part of this council."

Since the city of Maple Heights has been without an acting finance director since the beginning of the year, "Maple Heights has not been able to sign off on any expenditures over $1,000, nor are we able to sign any contracts," Jones stated.

Biro responds

When asked for a comment on the matter, Biro stated, "I have no comment on the legislation, but I would like to take this opportunity to thank Mayor Blackwell, her administrative staff and employees for their kindness, assistance and support over the past months."

ern Reserve, John Carroll, Baldwin Wallace and Notre Dame.

The scholarships can be used only for tuition, not for expenses such as housing, books and meals.

Recipients must live in the District and attend CMSD or partnering charter high schools. Current high school students who maintain residency can qualify, but starting with the Class of 2023, recipients must have been enrolled continuously from ninth grade through graduation.

With "The Cleveland Plan," CMSD has seen graduation rates reach a series of record highs, and fewer of those graduates have required remediation in college.

But the number of District graduates who enroll in college within a year has gone down, with the most recent data available, for the Class of 2016, showing it at less than 50 percent.

Say Yes Cleveland is a community effort. Besides the District, partners include Cuyahoga County, the city of Cleveland, Cleveland Public Library, Cleveland Teachers Union Local 279 and the Cleveland Council of Administrators and Supervisors.

The community is raising enough money for an endowment that will fund scholarships for 25 years – two generations of students. So far more than 40 foundations, corporations, families and individuals have contributed nearly $90 million, or $15 million more than the national "Say Yes" organization had required to launch the chapter.

The number needs to reach $125 million. Say Yes Cleveland will seek to raise the balance over the next five years, and leaders are confident they will reach their goal.

In addition to providing scholarships, Say Yes Cleveland will align existing community services, in and out of school, to help students and families overcome barriers to success. Examples include tutoring, after-school programming, mental-health counseling and free legal assistance.

CMSD and College Now counselors will help seniors apply for the scholarships. An online application will go live on February 4th. For more information, go to SayYesCleveland.org or call the Say Yes Cleveland scholarship hotline, 216-454-5400.

Community police reports

By Amber Weisbarth

(The following information was obtained from filed police reports and police dispatch logs.)

MAPLE HTS.

Discharge of Firearm

Police received a call on January 28th, around 3:50 p.m., about a gun shot being heard in the parking lot of Giant Eagle in Southgate Plaza on Warrensville Center Rd. A short time after the call, a 37-year-old man arrived at Bedford Hospital with his 10-year-old son who had a gunshot wound to his upper leg. The 37-year-old is a CCW permit holder and said the gun discharged accidentally. The 10-year-old was transported from Bedford Hospital to Rainbow Babies and Children's Hospital for further medical treatment. Police say the matter is under investigation and no charges have been filed.

Anyone with information related to this incident is asked to contact the Maple Heights Detective Bureau at 216-587-9624 or Detectives@mhpdo-hio.com. Information can also be given to CrimeStoppers anonymously by calling 216-252-7463 or submitting a web tip at www.25crime.com.

GARFIELD HTS.

Drug Activity

On January 27th, around 8 p.m., police were dispatched to the 4900 block of E. 106th St. for an alarm drop on a back door to the residence. When police arrived they found the back door open and it appeared no one was home.

Officers then went inside the home to check for intruders, and while searching the basement smelled a strong odor of marijuana. In plain view, a large amount of marijuana was found in an open drawer, along with a scale and a money counting machine.

A short time later a resident of the home arrived at the scene and then the man's girlfriend. SEALE detectives obtained a search warrant and arrived at the home to seize the drug paraphernalia as evidence. The 27-year-old man was held for investigation by SEALE.

Theft of Vehicle

A man told police he parked outside Little Caesar's Pizza on Turney Rd. on January 27th, around 6:45 p.m., while he went inside the restaurant.

He told police he left the keys in the ignition. When he came back outside about five minutes later, the car was gone along with the cell phone he left in the center console. A passerby said a young man wearing dark clothing and a young female got into the car and drove eastbound of Oakview. Officers searched the area for the vehicle/suspects with negative results. Officers said city cameras mounted at Turney and Mapleleaf showed a man wearing dark clothing near the car in the parking lot around 6:40 p.m. The vehicle's description was entered into LEADS as stolen.

Weapon Offense

On January 25th, around 1:10 a.m., a police officer at the Broadway Marathon gas station saw the railroad signal activate and the railroad gates begin to lower. At the same time, the officer saw a vehicle travel over the tracks, nearly colliding with the oncoming train. The driver was pulled over at McCracken and Orchard rds. and identified as a 28-year-old male. A search through LEADS told police the man was driving without a license and he was asked to step out of the car.

Police smelled marijuana coming from the car and the man appeared to be nervous. In plain view police saw loose marijuana on the driver's side floorboard. In the trunk police found a book bag containing a loaded handgun, several sandwich baggies with marijuana residue in them, a scale and a container with nearly 18 grams of marijuana inside.

The 28-year-old was placed under arrest, held without bond, was issued a summons for possession of marijuana, and was charged with having weapons while under disability, drug trafficking, possessing criminal tools, driving under suspension, failure to reinstate license, improper handling of a firearm in a motor vehicle, railroad violation and improper use of high beams.
